

Peace for Burma

Protest Against India COUNSULATE

Hundreds of thousands of peaceful people led by Buddhist Monks cry out for an end to a longstanding military dictatorship. Holding Sassana flags and reciting prayers of love on the street is a crime in Burma punishable by beating and death. Monasteries were raided at night, residences vandalized, over 2000 arrested, many monks disrobed, beaten, humiliated, tortured, and killed. The people of Burma have been silenced through military control, but they have not stopped their protest. Many people are still taking to the streets, but beaten, shot and killed. Come do the protest and meditation to urge India, the world's largest Democratic Supporter of Burmese brutal dictatorial regime, to step in and help resolve the situation peacefully.

Come protest India's irresponsible policies

An Indian minister was busy signing sweet business deals with the brutal regime in Rangoon while monks, nuns and lay people took to the streets. Come meditate and rally to condemn India's irresponsible actions.
